He that hideth hatred with lying lips, and he that uttereth a slander, is a fool. There is no slander in an allowed fool, though he do nothing but rail.—Shakespeare.

The Editorial Mind

Odds and Ends and Comment on Our Morning

The casiest way to get rich is to supply a necessity or provide enter ainment for the public.

Mail

When won are selling something people have to have, you escape the terrific task of educating the public to use a new device. The public, as result of having been bankowl nany times, is naturally suspicious of the new one. For instance, it required an immense amount of edurational advertising to induce people to buy the first breakfast foods. The auto has come into popularity in a matter of 20 years. You probably recall how suspicious and -kep tical people were when the first "horseless carriages" were put on the market. And the auto would not be widely used today if it were not for the infinite patience and effort and advertising campaigns of the makers. All this preliminary educational campaign is avoided when you sell a simple necessity that people al ready know a out and have to linve.

Of course, if you go into business otherfor yourself and sell a common necessity, you find you have tremendous competition. The idea of supplying necessities, to escape educating the public, is so obvious that it has occurred to others. So margins of profits are apt to be slender as the fight for business wages.

But dealing in a necessity means onick sales and rapid turn-over of stock. Unlike sitting around for years waiting for the public to get educated to the point of losing its respicions and taking a chauce on hying out a new device or service

When the consumer buys a dollar's worth of potatoes, 50 cents goes to the grower, country buyer and railroad, on the average. The rest is pocketed by the distributors, These figures are supplied by Uncle Sam's Department of Agriculture.

Problems of production are practically solved. The problem of distribution seems to be getting steadily farther and farther from somtion. Consumers certainly are tolerant.

PORT ARTHUR BECOMES MECCA FOR 4 IMPORTANT STATE CONVENTIONS

Port Arthur yields its keys to four state conventions during the last of this and fore part of next week. Master craftsmen from every locality in the state will be here at some one of the four sessions. Many of them will see Port Arthur for the first time. A few who have visited the city in recent years will find an epochal change, a new and greater Port Arthur.

Port Arthur is proud of its record. We doubt whether, in any eity in the state there is manifest a feeling of greater pride and loyalty, due to the part all of us have played in recent years, the period of its greatest growth.

Convention week therefore comes to be pretty much of a community affair. Port Arthur extends the hand of welcome and friendship to its visitors, It is hoped to make their stay a pleasant and profitable one. Functions planned during the days they will be with us will help to make it so.

While it is appropriate for the city as a municipality; its civie clubs and organizations and groups of citizens generally, to extend the hand of cordial greeting this would be but a formal approach exemplifying little real cheer unless the spirit was manifest by every individual citizen. We are genuinely glad to have these men with us; they are ranking in the affairs of their individual communities or they wouldn't be here. Let our vssociation with them, therefore, be spontaneous, interested and friendly not only as a municipality but as citizens.

Conventions are potent factors in state and national affairs. Topies indigenous with the several trades represented will be discussed and action will be taken on problems of major interest to all. We should seek to make the stay by these delegates so agreeable that they will want to come again, and if we drop our "busy may care" attitude during their stay here and play the part of real hosts we can do it.

DALLAS, April 18.—Accused stripping his congregation of their personal possessions in order to fi-nance the "coming of Christ," to Dellas on Easter Sunday, the Rev. John Quincy Adams, of the Holy Pentecostai church here was sought today by a grand jury.

It Did Her a World of Good And So Quickly That She Was Surprised

It was one dar last week that Mrs. J. T Measel of 4117 Fox avenue, Houston, in talking to the Merritone man at Public Drug Store No 3 praised Merritone very highly indeed. "I don't think it is possible for me to say too much about your Merritone," she said, "for it did iae more good than I thought it was possible for any medicine to do, and so guickly that I was really surprised trouble and indigestion for years. Towards the last it got so bad that there were very few things that I could eat without distressing sour stomach afterward, Gas would form in my stomach that always caused a fullness and surp pains in my stem ach. Half the time I was suffering with sick headaches and dirry spells. I had gotten to the point that I was just about ready to give up hope of ever being well again, for I had taken many kinds of medicine and nothing secined to help me.

"I suffered severely with stomach

"A friend of mine insisted that I try Merritone, and finally I bought a bottle. I hadn't taken more than half of it when I found, to my surprise, that I could eat anything 1 wanted to without the usual miserable after effects. Within a month my stomach trouble had entirely disappeared, and I haven't had a headache or dizzy spell since finishing the first bottle. I think your Merritone is u omierini.'

Such statements as that of Mrs people delighted with the good re-sults obtained from taking this excellent medicine, for Mermtone is nature's own remedy, made wholly of the juices of vegetables, roots and herbs. Miller, following a lengthy examination yesterday morning by Port Arthur physicians, was informed the ligaments in his injured shoulder had been torn away, and that his shoulder was dislocated. French Expert Calls Good Home Cooking an Indication of Real Romantic Love

SHE POKES FUN

But Blames Indulgent Husbands for Quality

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS The News Special Writer NEW YORK, April 17.—"The most practical way for any noman to demonstrate her love for her husband is by becoming a good cook," according to Comtesse Alice de la Ruelle. This vivacious foreigner, who re cently came to us from France, the land of good cooks, believes cooking should not be regarded as drudgery. but a fine art.

"Here in America, where food is plentiful, markets marvelous and where scientific information regarding cooking is within the reach of all. I find the culinary art least develop-ed," she declared,

"Many a peasant in France. or Italy fares better than your millionaires, because his wife studies his needs and temperament as no hired

"But perhaps your indulgent American husbands are to blame." went on, "They do not take their food as seriously as a Frenchman does There is no reverence for fine food. A Frenchman would not want a wife who could not cook. Over here a man rarely takes the trouble to find our if the woman he wants to marry has ever stepped into the kitchen."

It was at a dinner party of New York social registeries given in her honor, that the counters first voiced her surprise at the bad quality of food served in America. For the countess is one of the first women lawyers of France, is a social worker and a connoisseur of art as well as a good cook, and her mission here was not to

But immediately the women at the dinner besought her to tell what was wrong with the food, served at one of the most fashionable clubs, and the result was that the countess started a class in menu budding and French cookery and now many of the most socially prominent women of the city drive to her door each day and learn her culinary secrets.

When usked what were the main faults to be found with American cooking, the counters replied:

"You depend on canned foods, storage eggs and factory pies. You want to do everything too quickly. When you boil vegetables you throw away the peelings and the water in which they were cooked, and so you have thrown away the vitamins and mineral salts, too.

"You fry and boil too much, Bak-ing slowly is better for meats and vegetables, too.

Once a woman has learned the science of menu building she will no sooner serve foods that clash than she will invite guests not on speaking terms with one another." /

Duke Lists Advantages Of Principality

PARIS, April 18.—An entire nation with 65,000 people, a river "full idity of the city $3,350,000 bonds was sustained in two cases by the heart to the days of Wallenstein, case fourth court of civil appeals. ed for the auction block here to-

It is the little principality of Sagan, situated between Silesia, and Brandenburg and covering about 500 square miles of territory rich in historic German legends.

The offer is made by the Duke of Talleyrand De Perigord, husband of Anna Gould, "serene highness of the independent principality.

Dake to Keep Title The only qualifications are that the gake retain the title of "serene bighness of Sagan" and that the price shall be fixed by the duke's minister

The duke, in making public his astounding offer today, described his country with all the matter of fact frankness of an auctioneer's catalog. Sagan, he said, "is a complete, in-dependent principality, situated be-tween Silesia and Brandenburg, area about 500 square miles; 65,000 in-habitants, capital city of 15,000, chateaux, gothic church, complete city hall with reception salons, bronze statue of Frederick III, the river Bober with plenty of fish and divers fields, forests, etc."

Gave Country to Child

The title of Sagan, the duke explained, actually is held by his 15rear-old son Charles, to whom the duke gave the country as a birthday

The principality has existed since 1649, when the king of Bohemin gave it to his great leader Wallenstein, and has been in the Talleyrand fam-my since 1845.

Both the French and German gov ernments must consent to the sale, but the duke declares this is a "mere formality" as the Talleyrand family is sole owner of the domain.

"All I ask," the duke said in an interview, "is that I be allowed to retain my title of "Serene Highness of Sagan" and that my minister of finance be taken into consultation as to the price.

Lippincott's Gazeter lists Sagan as "A town in Prussia, in Silesia, capital of the Medicatized principality f Sagan, 48 miles northwest of Liegnitz, on the river Bober.

"It has remains of its old fortifications, several fine churches, some ancient dwellings and a chateaux sitnated in a beautiful park and containing art collections.

The town has iron foundries, and breweries and there are manufacturers of cotton and woolen stuffs, pot tery, glass and paper. Population in 1900-13,376."

HE'S BUILDING 1,400 HOMES

Washington Realty M Starts Something

WASHINGTON, April 13.—An ultra-conservative is a greater men-ace to business and polities than the worst radical, because the radical at least "starts something."

Thus reasons Harry Wardman. Washington's master builder and contractor and the largest real colate holder, excluding the federal government, in the District of Co-Jumbia. It is this reasoning that guides him as he is today working out plans for 1,400 houses, all soon to be under construction here.

Will Start Searching.
"My idea is to get comething started, even it goes wrong," he said, as he patted the head of his derman police dog. lying beside his desk in his own office building, imme-diately across the street from the department of justice. "If I didn't start something I would never accomplish anything-and that's fat worse than making mistakes.

"Take these 1,400 houses," he went on. (It seemed he dropped the on the "houses," but his Yorkshice training in spech is responsible for that.) "When they are completed I will have built more than 5,400. All will be sold to small-home investors and none will go for more than $7,000. They'll be absolutely modern though. Just a small monthly par-ment, like rent, after an even smaller first payment, in comparison

... Wardmann recently testified be the District of Columbian rent ministion that he would build these houses to relieve the housing situation here. A congressman at the hearing defered to bet a thousand dollars" he wouldn't do it.

Congregaman Didn't Bet "Mr. Congressman, I'll bet you a thousand dollars to one, these houses will be started in less than a week." he came back. The congressman held his peace, and in less than a week ground was broken for the

According to his plan, as he ex plained it today, Wardman will finance his buyers through old-line insurance companies. He will bandle the monthly payments in his own office, but the first payments will be so arranged that they can be retired in small amounts every three months In this way, he explained, there will be no necessity for renewals.

"All I ask of a man who wants to buy a house from me is that he be morally a good business risk," Wardman declared. "I have already built more than 4.000 bouses and apartment houses and I have never vet foreclosed a mortgage.

Noted Actor Declares That Movies Threaten It

By CLARENCE DU BOSE

United Press Staff Correspondent LONDON. April 18.-A government of municipality endowed theatre may be necessary to preserve the legitimate English stage from the movies, according to John Drinkwater, famous playwright, author of "Abraham Lincoln" and other historic dramas.

The cinema, however admirable in other ways, has no existence at all as an art," Drinkwater said.

He declared that with the exception of a few large cities in England, the provincial theater has already been killed by the movies-and now the theaters of the cities are threatened.

Drinkwater has no fear of the death of the legitimate theater in London itself, but he objects to the situation whereby the people of most of the rest of England are limited to movies, un-less they make a trip to London. Art for Art's Sake

His government-endowment plat would start a string of repertoire theaters in the provinces, billed by traveling troupes on a sort of "art for art's sake" basis.

Drinkwater said that, as a small boy, he traveled with the company of his father, who was an actor, "Some of the members of that company," he said, "received only $5 per week salary-but they adored their art, and each one of them is famous today. We had, in those day, a very real, perhapcrude, but most vigorous theatrical life in the provinces which has now entirely departed."

For the drama to decay, continued Drinkwater, means the decay of something far greater than the theater alone. Therefore a "courageous and adventurous government" could well afford to endow repertoire theatres for the English provinces, because of the tremendous influence the revival of drama throughout the country have upon the character of the coun-

By Lawrence Martin Copyright 1924 By United Press WASHINGTON, April 18 .- President Coolidge intends to make a plain, unfrilled statement of the is sues of the presidential campaign as be sees them, when he addresses newspaper editors in New York next

It is desirable in Mr. Coolidge's opinion that the public be always informed as to what it may expect from him and his administration providing they are returned to power. He has clear ideas of the issues and both he and his advisers agree that there is no reason why the president should not at once take a definite stand upon them.

Nothing new or startling need be expected in the way of declarations of principle in the forthcoming

His whole appeal will be for setting things in order so that the country can "settle down" to a period of quiet and calm.
